Scholar In Residence Report

July 2020 - Jerry Weiss

We have advertised the SIR opening through normally publicized channels, along with a general solicitation of IAM membership and are still awaiting completion of the response process.

To date, I have heard from a few members and from the academic community at large. The pandemic has posed some expectable challenges that shouldn't come as a surprise to anybody.

Our application deadline exceeds the board meeting date, but I presently anticipate one last "blast" in a month or so to make sure we have as full a field of candidates as possible. At that time, I shall report back as to whether we shall ensue with a selection process or whether a little more time may be required. Again, the pandemic poses some extraordinary challenges on many levels; however, as resilient problem-solvers, it is nothing we should be unduly concerned about.

I remain here for questions or other issues you may deem appropriate.

In the meanwhile, I send you and yours all my sincere wishes for good health and wellbeing during these challenging times
