Mechanics of Mediation: Preparation Creates Success

Mediation plays a critical role in our justice system. It requires a special skill set and raises unique challenges for both mediators and counsel. Beyond the justice system, mediation approaches and techniques are increasingly used in a wide variety of settings.

Developed as part of a unique partnership of legal, mediation and academic experts, the joint Winkler/IAM/OsgoodePD annual program draws from across North America, and internationally, and provides a forum discussion focused on broadening the skills of counsel and mediators.

This year's program focuses on crucial considerations and strategies when preparing for a mediation:

- Examining Key Considerations during Mediation Preparation
- Developing Strategies for Preparation in Highly Sensitive Cases
- Addressing Ethical Issues and Challenges Early in the Mediation Process
- Preparing Parties for an Effective Joint Session

PLUS! Hear from Keynote Speaker Sukhsimranjit Singh from Pepperdine University and join Interactive Small Group Sessions.
